Title I: CFDA# 39.011

Attachment A: Remarks (Box 12)

- 1 The District of Columbia Office of Finance and Resource Management combined the Title I and Title II funds into a single account. The total interest accrued in 2006 was $615,719. The BOEE has completed an analysis of HAVA expenditures made in 2006 and is in the process of establishing two separate accounts for Title I and Title II spending. Until the creation of the separate accounts and the appropriate re-programming of funds, it is not possible to calculate the amount of interest earned in each account.

REPORT BY THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA BOARD OF ELECTIONS AND ETHICS TO THE ELECTION ASSISTANCE COMMISSION
DETAILING THE EXPENDITURE OF TITLE I FUNDS IN 2006

Introduction

In August of 2003, the District of Columbia Board of Elections and Ethics (BOEE) published "Moving Elections Forward: A Plan for Implementing the Help America Vote Act in the District of Columbia." This narrative, together with the SF 269, provide an account of how the Board has used HAVA funds received under Title I to carry out the activities proposed in the State Plan.

The District of Columbia is already largely in compliance with the requirements of Title III. While a portion of the funds received under Title I were used to meet the requirements of HAVA Title III, they were also used to carry out the ambitious program set forth in the State Plan to improve the conduct of federal elections in the District of Columbia. In compliance with municipal law, the Board made an effort to support minority and women-owned businesses in contracting for a variety of services needed to implement HAVA.

In summary, consistent with the State Plan, the Board devoted both money and significant resources of time and energy on the following:

A. Complying with the requirements under title III

The cost of implementing a new voting system does not end with the purchase of equipment. In the 2004 election cycle, the BOEE found that many procedures and processes needed to be revamped in order to ensure smooth functioning of the voting system. The BOEE has included costs related to implementing the new system in this category so that the full cost of implementation will be more transparent:

- In the 2004 election cycle, the BOEE determined that results from the blended system of optical scan and touch-screen voting systems could not be effectively or securely transmitted using wireless technology. The BOEE opted instead to devise a system whereby the results would be physically transported from the polling place to the elections office. To ensure the timely reporting of results, the BOEE hired additional drivers and paid for additional security. Whereas, the BOEE employed 50 drivers in 2004, the BOEE hired 69 drivers in the Primary and General elections. ($9300)
- The State Plan calls for providing additional polling place staff dedicated to ensuring the smooth operation of touch-screen voting systems. For both the Primary and General elections, the BOEE hired "Precinct Technicians" and additional "Area Representatives" to provide necessary technical support. ($45,580)
- The BOEE contracted with Sequoia Voting Systems to provide additional Election Day technical assistance. ($39,625)

B. Improving the administration of elections for Federal office.

2007 FEB 29 PM 4:05

- The State Plan calls for recruiting an additional 3000 pollworkers to serve on Election Day. This effort entailed the following:
    - To improve the efficient management of recruitment and the pollworker program in general, the BOEE hired temporary staff to assist the pollworker manager ($6608.00)
    - The BOEE hired a recruiter to ensure that the BOEE met recruitment goals set forth in the State Plan. ($72,727)
    - Youth pollworker recruitment ($1158)
    - The BOEE sent out a recruitment mailing to all households with registered voters in the District of Columbia. ($38,861)
  - The BOEE, following recommendations promulgated by the National Institute for Standards and Technology, undertook to enhance the security of its voter registration system and voting systems. These changes included the purchase of security cabinets to house the BOEE server. ($29,361)
  - The BOEE established and produced "Media Guidelines" to explain changes under HAVA, and in particular, the new voting system. ($570)
- C. Educating voters concerning voting procedures, voting rights, and voting technology.
- The State Plan calls for producing a voter's guide to be sent to every household in the District of Columbia with a registered voter. The BOEE sent out guides prior to the Primary and the General elections. The guide contains candidate statements and sample ballots, in addition to information about where and when to vote. ($175,384)
  - To ensure that voters showed up at the correct polling place on Election Day (voters must vote in their precinct to have their votes counted), the BOEE invested in a voter education campaign that included radio and print advertising. ($33,213)
  - The BOEE enhanced the agency website, adding a "Voter Information Center," with features that allow voters to determine whether or not they are registered and where to vote. Other new features included instructions on how to use the new voting equipment. ($58,838)
  - The BOEE revised polling place signage. ($1299)
- D. Training election officials, poll workers, and election volunteers.
- The State Plan calls for improved training of pollworkers to ensure that new federal requirements are consistently adhered to in the polling place. In addition, new technology required devising a training program that would minimize problems on Election Day. To this end, the BOEE contracted with the International Foundation for Election Systems to do the following:
    - Evaluate the current training guides and training format and make recommendations to improve usability and user comprehension;

2007 FEB 29 PM 4:05

- Revise the pollworker training guides;
  - Provide in-person training for approximately 4,000 new and veteran pollworkers;
  - Evaluate the effectiveness of the training. ($49,183)
  - In addition, the BOEE produced a pollworker training video. ($38,251)
- E. Developing the State plan for requirements payments to be submitted under part 1 of subtitle D of title II.
- F. Improving, acquiring, leasing, modifying, or replacing voting systems and technology and methods for casting and counting votes.
- G. Improving the accessibility and quantity of polling places, including providing physical access for individuals with disabilities, providing non-visual access for individuals with visual impairments, and providing assistance to Native Americans, Alaska Native citizens, and to individuals with limited proficiency in the English language.
- The BOEE developed a plan to improve the accessibility of polling places. While some components of the plan were paid for using Section 261 funds, two components were paid for with Title I funds: mats to mitigate problems with physical access such as rough pavement or cracks in the walkways; additional call bells to allow voters to communicate with pollworkers in the polling place. ($5483)
  - The BOEE added Spanish Language signs in the polling place. ($1149)
- H. Establishing toll-free telephone hotlines that voters may use to report possible voting fraud and voting rights violations, to obtain general election information, and to access detailed automated information on their own voter registration status, specific polling place locations, and other relevant information.
- The BOEE contracted with Drake Communications to provide a toll-free telephone information hotline. This service allowed voters to check their registration status and learn where to vote on Election Day. ($77,300)
